

SCHEDULING

Regular schedules are generally maintained but employees within the same classification may trade work shifts or days off if the trade is first approved by their supervisor. Due to necessity and size of some department, changes may be made between different classifications. A change may be made if, approved, and if service to the public is not adversely impacted in anyway.